A Legacy of Cooperation: The Genesis and Evolution of ESCAP

The roots of ESCAP stretch back to the aftermath of World War II. Established in 1947 as the Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East \(ECAFE\), its initial mission was to assist in the economic reconstruction and development of a war-ravaged region. The early years focused on rebuilding infrastructure, promoting trade, and fostering industrial development. Over time, as the region evolved and its challenges diversified, so too did the mandate and scope of the commission.

In 1974, the commission was renamed the Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific (ESCAP) to reflect its expanded focus on social development, alongside economic progress. This renaming was a significant step, acknowledging that true development requires a holistic approach that considers the well-being of people, not just economic indicators. This shift recognized the interconnectedness of economic growth, social equity, and environmental sustainability.

Today, ESCAP serves as the most comprehensive regional platform for its 53 member and associate member states, spanning from Turkey in the west to the Cook Islands in the east. This geographical expanse highlights the immense diversity and interconnectedness of the Asia-Pacific landscape, from developed economies to least developed countries (LDCs) and small island developing states (SIDS).

For long-term learners, downloadable books provide continuity. Notes remain saved, highlights preserved, and bookmarks intact across devices. This persistence supports ongoing projects and evolving interests, allowing readers to build knowledge progressively rather than starting from scratch each time.
