

How To Get Divorced In Nsw

Unraveling the Knot: Navigating NSW Divorce Proceedings

Navigating the complexities of divorce can feel overwhelming, particularly when dealing with the legal intricacies of a specific jurisdiction. This comprehensive guide dives into the process of obtaining a divorce in New South Wales (NSW), Australia, offering clear insights and practical strategies to help you understand your rights and responsibilities. We'll explore the legal requirements, timelines, and potential pitfalls, providing you with the knowledge you need to confidently navigate this challenging transition.

Understanding the NSW Divorce Process

Obtaining a divorce in NSW is governed by the Family Law Act 1975, which applies to all states and territories in Australia. The primary goal is to legally dissolve a marriage. This isn't about assigning blame or determining fault; instead, it's about formally acknowledging the end of the marital union.

Grounds for Divorce in NSW

The cornerstone of a NSW divorce is establishing a “breakdown of the marriage.” This doesn't require proving infidelity or wrongdoing. The law recognizes that marriages can end for various reasons, and the following criteria are sufficient:

- Separation for 12 months: This is the most common ground. It means living separately and apart for a continuous period of at least 12 months. This doesn't necessarily mean you have to live in different houses. Living apart in the same home, with the relationship effectively broken down, can qualify.
- Irretrievable breakdown: The law recognizes a marriage can break down irretrievably for reasons beyond mere separation. The court can consider the evidence presented, including witness testimonies and documentation, to assess this.

The Role of the Court in NSW Divorce

The Family Court of Australia, or the Federal Circuit Court, has jurisdiction over divorce matters in NSW. These courts are responsible for determining whether the marriage has irretrievably broken down and issuing a decree of divorce. The process typically involves:

- Filing an Application: The petitioner (the person initiating the divorce) must file an application with the court, outlining the grounds for divorce and details about the marriage and separation.
- Serving the Respondent: A copy of the application must be formally served on the respondent (the other party in the marriage).
- Court Hearings (if required): In some cases, the court may schedule a hearing to gather evidence and determine whether to grant the divorce. This is less common for straightforward cases where the separation is clearly established.

Essential Steps to Obtain a Divorce in NSW

• Gathering Necessary Documentation: This includes marriage certificate, evidence of separation (e.g., bank statements showing separate accounts, correspondence, or lease agreements), and any relevant supporting documentation. • Understanding Court Procedures: Familiarize yourself with the court's procedures, filing deadlines, and required forms. • Seeking Professional Advice: Engaging a qualified family lawyer can provide invaluable guidance. They can help you understand the legal requirements, prepare your application, represent you in court, and navigate the complexities of the process. Real-World Example: Sarah and Mark have been separated for 18 months. They agreed on the terms of the divorce and filed a joint application, which significantly streamlined the process. This joint approach simplified documentation and reduced the need for individual hearings.

Benefits of Getting a Divorce in NSW

• Legal Termination of Marriage: This legally dissolves the marriage bond, allowing each party to move forward. • Relief from Obligations: The divorce formally releases both parties from spousal obligations outlined in the marriage agreement. • Freedom to Re-enter the Marriage Market: The divorce allows for the possibility of remarriage. • Potential for Financial Settlements: The divorce process paves the way for discussions regarding property division, financial settlements, and child support, if applicable.

Related Considerations: Financial and Child-Related Issues

Financial Settlement After Divorce in NSW

After the divorce decree, parties can engage in financial settlements. This involves dividing assets, debts, and superannuation. A financial agreement or consent order finalized by the court addresses this. It's not about assigning blame; it's about fairly distributing assets acquired during the marriage. Example: A couple owning a house and multiple bank accounts would need to agree on how the assets are divided. If a prenuptial agreement exists, it might play a significant role in the financial settlement.

Child Custody and Support

For marriages involving children, there are specific provisions related to custody and support. The court prioritizes the best interests of the child when making these decisions. Agreements between parents are strongly encouraged, but the court can intervene if necessary to ensure the child's well-being. Case Study: A family lawyer facilitated a mediation session between parents, resulting in a custody agreement that fostered a positive relationship between the parents and children. This approach reduced the court's involvement and enabled the children to maintain a sense of stability.

Table: Key Stages in the NSW Divorce Process

Stage	Description	Timeframe		Application Filing	Filing the divorce application with the court	Varies, depends on complexity
Service of Documents	Serving the divorce application to the other party	Varies		Court Hearing (if required)	Court hearing to address the divorce	Varies
Decree of Divorce	Final decree dissolving the marriage	Varies, typically several months

Navigating Potential Pitfalls

- Communication Breakdown: Open communication is crucial during the divorce process. Misunderstandings can escalate if parties don't communicate effectively. Engaging with a family mediator can significantly improve the process.
- Financial Disputes: Disagreements about financial settlements can be complex. Seeking legal counsel to understand your rights and obligations is essential.
- Emotional Challenges: Divorce can be a highly emotional experience. Seeking support from family, friends, or a therapist is important.

Conclusion

The process of obtaining a divorce in NSW is multifaceted and often demanding. This comprehensive guide aims to demystify the procedure, highlighting the critical steps and considerations. Remember, seeking professional guidance from a family lawyer is highly recommended. They can provide personalized advice, ensuring you understand your rights and responsibilities throughout the process.

Navigating the Path to Divorce in NSW: A Comprehensive Guide

Facing a divorce is undoubtedly one of the most challenging life transitions. It's a period filled with emotional turmoil, practical concerns, and a lot of questions. If you're in New South Wales (NSW) and contemplating or initiating the divorce process, this guide is designed to provide you with a clear, comprehensive, and reassuring roadmap. We'll break down the legal requirements, practical steps, and offer insights to help you navigate this complex journey as smoothly as possible.

Understanding the legal framework for divorce in Australia is crucial. The primary legislation governing divorce is the Commonwealth Family Law Act 1975. While NSW state courts handle family law matters, the grounds for divorce are federal. This means the process and requirements are the same across all of Australia, including NSW.

The Crucial First Step: Establishing the Grounds for Divorce

In Australia, the only ground for divorce is the irretrievable breakdown of the marriage. This sounds simple, but it has specific legal implications. To prove irretrievable breakdown, you generally need to demonstrate that you and your spouse have lived separately for a continuous period of at least 12 months and one day. This separation period is a cornerstone of the divorce application.

Understanding Separation in NSW

Separation doesn't always mean living in separate houses. You can be considered separated while still living under the same roof. This is often referred to as "separation under one roof." In such cases, you'll need to provide evidence to the court that you have:

1. Ceased to live together as a married couple.
2. Told each other that you were separating (though not always required if your actions clearly show it).

3. Slept in separate bedrooms.
4. Told family and friends about the separation.
5. Stopped sharing finances and household duties.
6. Reduced social interactions as a couple.

If you've lived separately for the required 12 months and one day, you're eligible to apply for a divorce. There are exceptions to the 12-month separation rule, most notably if you are seeking a divorce based on adultery, though this is a more complex and less common path. For the vast majority, the 12-month separation is the standard requirement.

The Divorce Application Process in NSW

The divorce application is filed with the Federal Circuit and Family Court of Australia. You can apply as a sole applicant or jointly with your spouse.

Sole Application vs. Joint Application

Sole Application: This is where one party files the application. The other party (the respondent) is then formally notified. If you file a sole application, you'll need to serve the application on your spouse. This is a critical step and has specific rules that must be followed.

Joint Application: Both parties agree and file the application together. This usually signifies a more amicable separation and can streamline the process as there's no need for formal service on the other party.

Key Documents and Information Required

Regardless of whether you apply solely or jointly, you'll need to provide:

1. Your marriage certificate (original or a certified copy).
2. Proof of identity for both applicants.
3. Information about any children of the marriage under 18 years old.

When Children Are Involved: The Court's Focus

If you have children under the age of 18, the court takes a particular interest in their well-being. You will need to provide a formal "Application for Divorce" with an accompanying "Affidavit verifying the application". This affidavit requires you to detail the arrangements made for the children. The court needs to be satisfied that proper arrangements are in place for their welfare and to ensure their lives are not unduly disrupted by the divorce.

This might include outlining:

1. Where the children will live.
2. How much time they will spend with each parent.
3. How financial support for the children will be managed.

The court's primary concern is the best interests of the child. Even if you and your spouse have agreed on these arrangements, you must present them clearly to the court.

What if You Can't Agree on Children's Arrangements?

If you and your spouse cannot agree on arrangements for your children, the court may require you to attend mediation or counselling before proceeding with the divorce application. The court will want to see that you have made genuine efforts to resolve these matters amicably. Sometimes, finalising property settlement and parenting arrangements can occur concurrently with the divorce application, or at least be well underway.

Serving the Divorce Application (Sole Applicants)

If you've filed a sole application, you must formally notify your spouse of the proceedings. This is called 'serving' the application. Strict rules apply to how this is done to ensure fairness.

Methods of Service:

Common methods include:

1. Personal service: Handing a copy of the application directly to your spouse.
2. Registered post: Sending the application via registered post to their last known address.
3. Service by an authorised person: Having a third party (not involved in the case) serve the documents.

You will need to file an Affidavit of Service with the court to prove that your spouse has been served.

The Court Hearing and Divorce Order

Once the application is filed and, if necessary, served, the court will schedule a hearing. This is usually a brief hearing, especially in straightforward cases.

What Happens at the Hearing?

In most cases, if the application is in order and all requirements are met, the court will grant the divorce. If children under 18 are involved, the judge will review the arrangements you've presented. If you applied jointly and there are no children under 18, you may not even need to attend the hearing.

The Final Divorce Order

If the divorce is granted, the court will issue a Divorce Order. This order legally ends your marriage. There is a mandatory one-month and one-day waiting period after the Divorce Order is made before the divorce becomes final. You cannot remarry until the divorce is final.

Property Settlement and Parenting Arrangements: Beyond Divorce

It's vital to understand that a divorce legally ends your marriage, but it does not automatically resolve issues related to property division or parenting arrangements. These are separate legal processes that can be dealt with before, during, or after your divorce application.

Property Settlement in NSW

Property settlement involves dividing the assets and liabilities of the marriage. This can include real estate, bank accounts, superannuation, investments, and debts. The process can be resolved:

1. By agreement: You and your spouse reach a mutual agreement. This is often formalised in a Binding Financial Agreement or by Consent Orders filed with the court.
2. Through court orders: If you cannot agree, either party can apply to the Federal Circuit and Family Court of Australia for property orders.

The court considers various factors when determining property division, including the length of the marriage, the contributions of each party (financial and non-financial), and the future needs of each party.

Parenting Arrangements (Child Custody)

Parenting arrangements, often referred to as child custody in common language, deal with where children live, how much time they spend with each parent, and decision-making about their upbringing (such as education and healthcare). Similar to property settlement, these can be resolved by:

1. Parenting Plans: A written agreement between parents. While not legally binding in the same way as court orders, they are a strong indication of parental intentions.
2. Consent Orders: Legally binding orders made by the court based on an agreement reached by the parents.

3. Court Orders: If parents cannot agree, they can apply to the court for parenting orders. The court's paramount consideration is always the best interests of the child.

If you have been married for more than two years, you generally need to resolve property settlement and parenting matters before you can apply for a divorce. If you have been married for less than two years, the court may grant a divorce without these issues being settled, but it's highly advisable to address them for clarity and finality.

When to Seek Legal Advice in NSW

While the divorce process in NSW can sometimes be navigated without a lawyer, especially in amicable and straightforward cases, seeking legal advice is highly recommended, particularly if:

1. You have children under 18.
2. Your marriage lasted less than two years.
3. There are complex financial arrangements or significant assets/debts.
4. You and your spouse do not agree on parenting arrangements or property settlement.
5. You are unsure about any aspect of the divorce application or related matters.
6. You need to serve your spouse and are concerned about doing it correctly.

A qualified family lawyer in NSW can provide tailored advice, ensure all legal requirements are met, help you understand your rights and obligations, and guide you through the complexities of property and parenting matters. They can also assist in drafting necessary court documents and represent you in court if required.

Common Pitfalls to Avoid

Navigating divorce can be fraught with potential issues. Being aware of common mistakes can save you time, stress, and money:

1. Incorrectly calculating the separation period: Ensure you have 12 months and one day of separation.
2. Improper service of documents: Failure to serve correctly can lead to delays or dismissal of your application.
3. Not addressing children's arrangements adequately: The court prioritises children's welfare.
4. Delaying property settlement or parenting arrangements: These can be complex and take time.
5. Assuming divorce automatically settles finances or children's issues: It doesn't.
6. Remarrying before the divorce is final: This is a criminal offence.

The Emotional Side of Divorce

While this guide focuses on the legal aspects, it's important to acknowledge the emotional toll divorce takes. It's a grieving process, and it's okay to seek support. Consider speaking with a therapist, counsellor, or joining a support group. Focus on self-care and remember that this is a transition to a new chapter, however difficult it may seem now.

Conclusion: Moving Forward from Divorce in NSW

Getting a divorce in NSW, like anywhere in Australia, is a legal process governed by federal law. While it involves specific steps and requirements, understanding these can demystify the journey. The core elements revolve around proving the irretrievable breakdown of the marriage, usually through 12 months of separation, and addressing arrangements for any children under 18. Remember that divorce is about the legal ending of the marriage, and separate, but often intertwined, processes deal with your future financial and parental responsibilities.

By gathering the necessary documentation, understanding the application procedure, and being mindful of the crucial elements like children's welfare and property division, you can navigate your divorce with greater confidence. Don't hesitate to seek professional legal advice from a solicitor specialising in family law in Sydney or other NSW regions to ensure you achieve the best possible outcome for yourself and your family. This is a challenging time, but with the right information and support, you can move forward towards a new beginning.

Getting Divorced in New South Wales: A Comprehensive Guide

Divorce is a significant life transition that requires careful navigation, especially in a jurisdiction like New South Wales (NSW), where legal procedures are well-defined yet demanding. Understanding how to initiate and complete a divorce in NSW empowers individuals to approach this process with clarity, confidence, and respect for legal requirements. This article provides a detailed, authoritative overview of the divorce process in NSW, highlighting key insights, practical applications, tangible benefits, and the evolving landscape of family law in the region.

Understanding the Legal Framework for Divorce in NSW

In NSW, divorce is governed primarily by the Matrimonial Causes Act 1970, which outlines the grounds, procedures, and timelines for legally ending a marriage. The act allows couples to seek dissolution of marriage either through mutual consent or through contested proceedings. Mutual consent divorce, where both parties agree on the end of the marriage, is often faster and less adversarial, reducing emotional strain and legal costs. However, when disagreements persist—over assets, custody, or other critical issues—contested divorce becomes necessary. The court system ensures fairness by requiring clear evidence, documented agreements, and adherence to statutory timelines, protecting the rights and interests of all parties involved.

Key Grounds and Eligibility Requirements

To initiate divorce proceedings in NSW, both spouses must meet specific eligibility criteria. For a contested divorce, at least one party must file the application, typically alleging irreconcilable differences or irreparable breakdown of the marriage. While emotional distress alone is insufficient, demonstrable factors such as separation, incompatibility, or harmful behavior may support the case. Importantly, the individual seeking divorce must reside in NSW for at least 12 months prior to filing, ensuring the court has jurisdiction and the decision holds local relevance. Confirming these requirements early prevents delays and strengthens the validity of the legal process.

Step-by-Step Process of Filing for Divorce

The journey begins with preparing and lodging a formal divorce petition at the NSW District Court. This document outlines the grounds for divorce, requested outcomes, and details about shared assets, debts, and dependent children. Once filed, the other spouse receives notice and has a specified period—usually 20 days—to respond, either accepting the terms or contesting them. If no agreement is reached, the case advances to mediation, a mandatory step designed to encourage resolution through dialogue and compromise. Mediators guide couples toward mutually acceptable solutions, reducing courtroom conflict and fostering cooperation. Should mediation fail, the matter proceeds to trial, where evidence is presented, witnesses may testify, and the court delivers a binding judgment. This structured yet flexible process ensures thorough consideration of all legal and personal factors.

Navigating Financial and Custody Considerations

One of the most complex aspects of divorce in NSW involves resolving financial settlements and custody arrangements. The court applies principles of fairness and equity, assessing factors such as each spouse's income, contributions to the marriage, and future financial needs. Asset division typically follows the principle of equal sharing, though exceptions apply in cases involving long-term commitments or strategic asset allocation. Equally important is determining child custody and parenting plans, where the child's best interests guide judicial decisions. Courts prioritize stability, regular contact with both parents, and minimizing disruption to routines.

Achieving a balanced agreement often requires legal counsel or mediation, ensuring children remain central to all discussions and their well-being remains paramount.

Practical Benefits of a Structured Divorce Process

Engaging with the formal divorce process in NSW offers several meaningful advantages. The legal framework provides a clear, transparent pathway that reduces uncertainty and emotional volatility. By mandating mediation, the system encourages constructive communication, helping couples maintain respectful co-parenting or post-divorce relationships. Access to legal advice ensures rights are protected, and court oversight guarantees that decisions reflect genuine consensus and fairness. Moreover, structured proceedings promote financial accountability, reducing the risk of future disputes over assets or support. These benefits collectively support a smoother transition, enabling individuals and families to rebuild lives with greater stability and dignity.

Looking Ahead: Evolving Trends in NSW Family Law

Family law in NSW continues to adapt to societal changes, emphasizing flexibility, inclusivity, and psychological well-being. Recent reforms have strengthened support for shared parenting, expanded access to mediation, and improved processes for blended families and culturally diverse cases. As awareness grows around mental health impacts of divorce, courts and legal professionals increasingly advocate for compassionate, trauma-informed approaches. Looking forward, digital innovations—such as online filing and virtual court sessions—are streamlining access and efficiency, making divorce proceedings more accessible than ever. Staying informed about these developments empowers individuals to navigate divorce not just legally, but with greater emotional and social resilience. Ultimately, understanding how to get divorced in NSW equips individuals with the knowledge and confidence to manage one of life's most challenging transitions. By embracing clarity, cooperation, and professional support, couples can move forward with integrity, ensuring their next chapter is grounded in fairness, respect, and hope.

Navigating the Legal Maze: A Comprehensive Guide to Getting Divorced in NSW

The end of a marriage is rarely a simple or painless experience. Beyond the emotional turmoil, there's the complex legal process of obtaining a divorce. For those in New South Wales (NSW), understanding the steps involved is crucial to navigating this challenging period with clarity and confidence. This detailed, analytical guide aims to demystify the process of getting divorced in NSW, providing you with the essential information you need, from initial requirements to finalising your divorce order.

Understanding the Grounds for Divorce in NSW

In Australia, and therefore in NSW, the legal framework for divorce is governed by the Commonwealth Family Law Act 1975. The sole ground for divorce is the irretrievable breakdown of the marriage. This means you must satisfy the court that your marriage has ended and there is no reasonable likelihood of reconciliation.

Key to proving irretrievable breakdown is demonstrating that you and your spouse have lived separately and apart for a continuous period of at least 12 months and one day immediately prior to filing the application. This separation period is a fundamental requirement. It's important to note that you can still be considered separated even if you continue to live under the same roof, provided certain conditions are met. This is often referred to as 'separation under one roof' and requires more substantial evidence to prove.

Separation Under One Roof: A Nuance

to Consider

Living separately and apart doesn't always mean physically moving out of the marital home. If you and your spouse continue to reside in the same property, you will need to demonstrate to the court that you have:

- 1. Stopped living together as a married couple.
- 2. Started living separate lives.
- 3. Communicated this intention to separate to each other.

Evidence for this can include sleeping in separate rooms, ceasing to share meals or household chores, notifying friends and family of your separation, and having no intention to reconcile.

Documenting these changes is vital for a successful application.

Eligibility Criteria for a NSW Divorce Application

Before embarking on the divorce process in NSW, ensure you meet the following eligibility criteria:

Marriage Validity

You must have been legally married. This means a marriage that was validly solemnised in Australia or overseas. Copies of your marriage certificate are essential documentation. If your marriage certificate is not in English, you will need to provide a certified translation.

Jurisdiction Requirements

At least one of the parties to the marriage must meet one of the following residency requirements:

- 1. Be an Australian citizen.
- 2. Be ordinarily resident in Australia and have been for at least 12 months immediately preceding the filing of the divorce application.
- 3. Normally reside in Australia and intend to continue to do so.

These jurisdictional requirements ensure that the Australian courts have the authority to grant your divorce.

Children Under 18

If there are children of the marriage who are under the age of 18, the application process becomes more complex. The court needs to be satisfied that proper arrangements have been made for the 'care, welfare, and development' of these children. This may involve providing court-approved parenting plans or orders. Failure to address these arrangements can lead to the dismissal of your divorce application.

The Divorce Application Process in NSW

The divorce application in NSW is filed with the Federal Circuit and Family Court of Australia (FCFCOA). While the process is nationally consistent, understanding the specific steps is key.

Step 1: Gather Necessary Documents

Crucial documents for your divorce application include:

- 1. Your original or certified copy of your marriage certificate.
- 2. Proof of identity (e.g., driver's licence, passport).
- 3. If applicable, divorce orders or parenting plans for children under 18.
- 4. If applicable, evidence of separation under one roof.
- 5. If your marriage certificate is not in English, a certified translation.

Having these readily available will streamline the application.

Step 2: Complete the Application for Divorce Form

The application is typically made online through the FCFCOA's Commonwealth Courts Portal. You can complete the Application for Divorce form yourself or engage a solicitor to assist you. The form requires detailed information about you, your spouse, your marriage, and your separation. Accuracy is paramount.

Step 3: Filing the Application and Paying the Fee

Once completed, the application form and supporting documents are filed electronically with the FCFCOA. A filing fee is payable at the time of lodgement. Fee reductions or exemptions may be available for individuals experiencing financial hardship.

Step 4: Serving the Application on Your Spouse

After filing, your spouse (the respondent) must be formally notified of the divorce application. This is known as 'service'. There are strict rules around how service must be effected. Usually, this involves delivering a copy of the filed application and a blank Application in Response form to your spouse. Service must be completed within a specific timeframe before the court hearing.

Step 5: The Court Hearing

If you have children under 18, you will generally be required to attend a court hearing. If there are no children under 18, and your spouse does not file a response, the court may grant the divorce without a hearing. The hearing is usually brief and focuses on ensuring all legal requirements have been met, particularly concerning the children's welfare. You may be represented by a lawyer at this hearing.

Step 6: The Divorce Order

If the court is satisfied that all requirements have been met, it will grant a divorce order. The divorce order will become final one month and one day after it is made. This period provides an opportunity for either party to appeal the decision. Once the order is final, you are legally divorced.

Divorce vs. Property Settlement and Parenting Arrangements

It's critical to understand that a divorce order only legally ends your marriage. It does not automatically resolve issues related to:

- 1. Property Settlement: Dividing marital assets and debts.
- 2. Parenting Arrangements: Determining custody, visitation, and child support.

These matters are often dealt with separately, either through private agreements (consent orders) or by court orders made in the Federal Circuit and Family Court of Australia. It is highly recommended to resolve these significant issues before your divorce becomes final. There are time limits for initiating proceedings for property settlement after a divorce order becomes final (usually 12 months).

The Importance of Legal Advice

The divorce process in NSW, while having a clear legal framework, can be intricate, especially when children or complex financial arrangements are involved. Engaging with a qualified family lawyer is invaluable. They can:

- 1. Advise on your eligibility and the best approach for your specific circumstances.

- 2. Assist with the accurate completion and filing of all necessary forms.
- 3. Guide you through the service requirements.
- 4. Represent you at court hearings.
- 5. Help you understand and negotiate property settlement and parenting arrangements.
- 6. Ensure you are aware of all relevant time limits.

Seeking legal advice early can prevent costly mistakes and ensure a smoother, less stressful transition through this significant life change. Remember, while the legalities of divorce in NSW can seem daunting, with the right information and support, you can navigate this process effectively.

Questions & Answers About how to get divorced in nsw

No	Question	Answer
1	What's the absolute first step I need to take if I'm thinking about getting divorced in NSW?	The very first step is to understand the legal grounds for divorce in NSW, which is 'irretrievable breakdown of the marriage'. This means you've been separated for at least 12 months and one day. You'll need to gather essential documents like your marriage certificate.
2	Do I need a lawyer to get divorced in NSW, or can I do it myself?	You don't strictly need a lawyer for an 'uncontested' divorce in NSW (where both parties agree on all terms, including property and children). However, a lawyer can be invaluable for navigating the process, ensuring all legal requirements are met, and protecting your interests, especially if there are complex issues.

3	How long does the divorce process actually take in NSW?	The minimum time for a divorce application in NSW is 12 months and one day of separation. After filing, it typically takes a few months for the court to process the application and grant the divorce order. If children under 18 are involved, there's an additional waiting period after the divorce order is made.
4	What are the costs involved in getting a divorce in NSW?	There are court filing fees for the divorce application. If you engage a lawyer, their fees will vary depending on their hourly rate and the complexity of your case. If you need to serve your spouse and they are uncooperative, there might be additional costs for a process server.
5	I have kids under 18. What extra things do I need to consider for my divorce in NSW?	If you have children under 18, you must provide the court with details about the arrangements for their care, welfare, and development. You'll need to show you've made proper arrangements before the court will grant the divorce. This often involves demonstrating agreements about custody, child support, and living arrangements.
